

Winter Flying

Are you putting away your wings for the winter flying months or are you preparing yourself for some great times to fly? With the change of seasons upon us, there are many pilots that will stop flying for the next few months. If that includes you, you will be missing some of the best times to fly! The challenges of winter flying will create new problems for any pilot if you are not prepared. Are you ready for the challenge? Our November meeting will look at what precautions that should be taken to aid you in staying safe while flying in the winter.

Directions: We will be meeting in the Lake in the Hills office building. The building is found on the north side of the main parking lot.
